H. HARDMAN'S PIANOFORTES—MANUFACTORY H. and wareroom, 62 White street, three doors west of Broadway.—The substriber announces to his friends, and the public in general, that, in consequence of the facreased demand toop his pianofortes, be has genoved from his old factry, No. 163 West Broadway, to E more central location, where he is orecting an extensive factory, with wareroom attached, which will be completed by the lat of November.
He would state to those who contemplate purchasing, that all his instruments are manufactured under his immediate supervision, and of well seasoned materials; and being a pgactical mechanic, he is able to judge of the efficiency of those alterations which are daily being made in pianofortes, and has only adopted such as his long experience convinces him will really improve the instrument. He has lately been deveting his time entirely to an improvement in the scale, which he assures those who have expressed themselves so much pleased with his pianos, adds greatly to their power
